

Bonnie Hagemann

As a cutting-edge entrepreneur, leadership development consultant, and captivating speaker, Bonnie Hagemann brings her passion for excellence, integrity and living life to the fullest to her audiences. She travels extensively and is in demand with an expertise in executive assessment and leadership development.

To date, Hagemann has conducted full coaching programs for over 65 leaders in medium and large organizations including 7 organizational presidents. She has delivered over 250 presentations and speeches on leadership, teambuilding, communication, conflict, and behavior. She has 11 published works, a 360-degree survey and a new book called Decades of Differences on the shifting workforce demographics and their impact on leadership.

In addition to keynote speeches and the clients she continues to personally serve, Hagemann is the CEO of Executive Development Associates, a firm known around the world for its highly successful custom-designed executive development strategies, systems and programs. EDA pioneered the use of executive development to help organizations successfully address their marketplace challenges and accelerate the execution of their business strategy.

Hagemann's leadership, sound business principles, and expertise in leadership development and innovative marketing has led EDA to count some of the most respected organizations in the world among its clients. Lockheed Martin, St. Luke's Healthcare System (U.S. Top 100 Hospital), the U.S. Department of Interior, Southwest Airlines, Fuji Hunt, and many others have benefited from her personal insights and consulting expertise in areas such as keynote speeches, executive coaching, succession planning, high-potential leader development, and effective communications. She has gained a great reputation and is sought after as a thought-leader by leading magazines, newspapers and other media forms and publications.

The combination of her strong interpersonal skills, positive messages, and background as a coach and consultant result in a unique speaking style that touches audiences of all types. She takes great pride in customizing her work for the clients that she serves. Her presentation titles include but are not limited to the following:

PRESENTATION TITLES:

- Decades of Differences: Making it Work
- Women and Leadership
- Diverse Generations in the Workplace
- Developing Leaders
- Developing High Potential Leaders
- Leadership in Healthcare
- Physician Leadership

Personally, Hagemann is married to another entrepreneur, Todd, and together they have two children Erin (12) and Joel (8). They live on 9 acres in a Kansas City suburb where they enjoy a fun and peaceful life of swimming, fishing, participating in and giving back to their community, school and church.

